

The Greater Saint Charles Convention & Visitors Bureau has announced its publication of the 2009 Visitors Guide. This year's guide is a commemorative edition highlighting St. Charles' Bicentennial anniversary. The 2009 guide is a unique edition in that it is printed in a "two-way, flip book" format or as it's called in the printing industry, a coming and going piece. According to CVB Director David Rosenwasser, the book contains the regular line-up of tourism details, including shopping, attractions, wineries, dining and accommodations.

As in year's past," he said, "the guide also highlights sports and recreation facilities as well as meeting and banquet options. In honor of the city's 200th anniversary, the flip side of the book focuses on historical aspects, including photos, a timeline and an introductory letter from Mayor Patti York and Council President Larry Muench."

The 2009 Visitors Guide is available free of charge at the CVB located in the historic district at 230 South Main Street. Individuals may also call the tourism office directly at 636-946-7776 for more information.

Community Freedom Center - Here's the latest and greatest on our city's future jewel

IF you happened by the future site of St. Charles' Community Freedom Center over the course of the Memorial Day weekend, then you no doubt noticed activities underway on the former K-Mart lot. ShowMe Aquatics & Fitness hosted a family-friendly carnival on Veteran's Memorial Parkway between Hwy. 94 and Zumbahl Road. "It was a terrific way to connect with the community and give this project some local visibility," said Patrick Banger, past Chairman of the ShowMe board of directors. According to Banger there will continue to be a plethora of activity underway as the project is on track with the recent application to the Planning & Zoning Commission. From there, it goes to the City Council for approval. "At this writing," Banger said, "we intend to host a ground-breaking ceremony at 10 a.m. on Thursday, September 10 and all are welcome to attend this momentous occasion."

Mayor Patti York indicated the center's oversight committee comprising members of the St. Charles City Council and ShowMe's Board of Directors continues to meet regularly to further design the facility's footprint, including the interior design. "One new addition to the plan is the inclusion of a party room that can be used for birthdays or simply for parental observation purposes while children are swimming," she said.

The City of St. Charles and ShowMe Aquatics are jointly building and managing the 105,000-square-foot facility, which will include a fitness center, large warm water pool, lap pool and children's aquatic park. The oversight committee selected McCarthy Building Companies, Inc., as the construction manager and Hastings & Chivetta as architect to carry out the project. The civil engineering firm assigned to the project is Cole & Associates.

Here's a look at next steps:

- Thursday, Sept. 10 (10 a.m.) ground-breaking on the project site.
- Week of Sept. 14 — demolition of the former K-Mart facility begins.
- September 2009 and beyond — continued site work and ongoing construction efforts.
- Spring 2011 — facility opens for the benefit of the community.

Banger estimated the oversight committee will begin identifying membership packages and related usage fees next year. "We're also discussing future amenities which could potentially include a competition swimming pool and a multi-use athletic court to accommodate inline hockey and indoor soccer.

"From the outset," he concluded, "we've made a concerted effort to provide accommodations for specific target groups, especially in the way of locker room facilities. The center's basic amenities place it among the very best our region has to offer, but the overall design will offer a unique combination of additional features not found in any other single facility in the nation."

FOUR ST. CHARLES AREA BUSINESSES RECEIVE THE 2009 EMPLOYER OF THE YEAR

Mayor Patti York bestowed Employer of the Year honors on four St. Charles area businesses during the May 20 St. Charles Chamber of Commerce general membership meeting at the Saint Charles Convention Center. "We are pleased to recognize local businesses who continue to grow and thrive in our city," said Mayor York. "These companies make a huge investment in our community and as employers provide support and benefits to their staff. St. Charles annually presents the award in the categories of service, manufacturing/industrial and retail; this year the city added a new category entitled the energy efficiency award. The 2009 honorees are:

Service - First State Bank of St. Charles – 206 North Fifth Street \(636-940-5555\)

A local independent bank serving St. Charles County for over 142 years, First State Bank of St. Charles believes civic involvement and employee participation are important values for any local community bank. First State Bank president and CEO David Strautz credits the 54 full- and part-time bank employees who serve customers at four banking centers in St. Charles County for the bank's longevity and reputation. "This bank's success stems from its ability to build lasting relationships through customer interactions and employee teamwork," Strautz said. "As a local community bank, we are proud to serve the businesses and families of St. Charles County. Our employees live and work in this community, and they truly care about the customers we serve every day."

Manufacturing/Industrial - ELTEK Labs – 248 Hughes Lane \(636-949-5835\)

ELTEK International Laboratories is founded on a philosophy – developed by the company's founder and president Ed Van Vooren – based upon the 'growth of human capital.' According to general manager Andrea Morse, Mr. Van Vooren believes that to develop professionals you must first begin by developing the person that will become the professional. "Much of the recognition that our employees receive here at ELTEK are founded in this philosophy," Morse said. The employees of ELTEK nominated Mr. Van Vooren for this honor as he is world-renowned for his knowledge and expertise in the electrical testing industry. Ed established ELTEK Labs – an electrical testing laboratory – in 1987. The company currently has 17 employees (including two UMSL/Wash. U. engineering interns) and several external sales reps servicing over 450 customers worldwide.

Retail - St. Charles Office Furniture – 710 Fountain Lakes Blvd. \(636-947-3172\)

When it comes to surviving the current economic situation, the folks at St. Charles Office Furniture know all too well the value of retaining traditional values and customer service. "Despite the various barriers to doing just that, during today's economic climate the personal attention to detail has never been more important," said Ronald "Pete" Barreau, president. The company has been in existence for 15 years, providing office space planning, new and used office furniture and related accessories. The six employees on staff at St. Charles Office Furniture excel based on the company's practice of providing acknowledgements for a job well-done, including financial bonuses. "From a civic standpoint, we also donate furniture to local churches and schools," added Barreau. "Plus, we discount furniture for local charities and educational institutions." According to Pete and his wife Pat, the company expanded their facility in 2005, providing an additional 7,000 square feet of space.

Energy Efficiency - EPC, Inc. – 3941 Harry S. Truman Blvd. \(636-443-1999\)

EPC is one of the premier Asset Recovery Solution providers in North America. The company's mission is to provide its customers with the most seamless solutions for maximizing return and minimizing the risks associated with data security and improper handling of end-of-life IT assets. "We are committed to continual improvement," said vice president Dave Beal. EPC's environmental efforts earned the company the St. Louis Business Journal's 2008 Heroes of the Planet Award for the Sustainable Products category. "Our main business," added Beal, "is to refurbish or recycle computer equipment. If the computer/monitor/printer is in working order or needs minor repairs, we refurbish the unit and sell it. If the piece is too old or cannot be repaired, we demanufacture and recycle it." It takes less energy to recycle than to make these materials from scratch." EPC has been in business for 25 years and currently employs 240 people.

Mosquito Spray Schedule

The St. Charles Community Development staff began the 2009 mosquito spray schedule May 11. The city currently operates three fogging machines, to cover the citywide, weekly schedule between the hours of 7 and 10 p.m. as follows:

- ◆ Mondays -- Ward 1, Ward 2 and Ward 3
- ◆ Tuesdays -- Ward 6*, Ward 9* and Ward 10*
- ◆ Wednesdays -- Ward 4, Ward 5 and Ward 8*
- ◆ Thursdays -- Ward 6*, Ward 7, Ward 8*, Ward 9* and Ward 10*

* Denotes partial -- for questions, call Community Development at 636-949-3222.

FYI...Do's, Don'ts and Helpful Tips

The city's program to help control the public health annoyance caused by mosquitoes utilizes a product named Evoluer 4 - 4 ULV. This product is applied in each ward of the city once a week using truck mounted sprayers. The product does not pose a health risk to humans or animals; however we recommend you take reasonable steps to avoid the fog when possible. Appropriate steps include the following:

- ✓ Close the windows of your vehicle if you are following a mosquito spraying truck.
- ✓ Keep yourself and children out of the street until the fog settles or dissipates.
- ✓ Wash skin and hands if irritated by direct contact with the chemical.
- ✓ Do not attempt to stop or get the attention of the mosquito truck operator. The trucks are calibrated to distribute the proper chemical amounts.

There are additional steps all residents can take to help prevent mosquitoes from breeding and becoming adults. We ask that everyone follow these guidelines to prevent mosquitoes from becoming a nuisance to you and your neighbors.

- Eliminate all standing water from areas on your property.
- Remove water from tires, buckets, and other items that collect water.
- Don't dump grass clippings, branches or other items in storm drains or ditches.
- Fill holes in trees with sand or mortar.
- Scrub and change the water in bird baths weekly.
- Empty and refill pets' water pans daily.
- Empty any small plastic wading pools weekly. Store indoors when not in use. Properly maintain your swimming pool and keep it covered so as not to collect rain water.
- Contact the City of St. Charles (636-949-3227) if you know of large bodies of stagnant water, this way we can take appropriate steps to eliminate the water.

More information about the mosquito control product, as well as the MSDS that is utilized by the City of St. Charles, can be found online at: <http://www.allprovector.com/evoluer.htm>.

Kevin Corwin Joins St. Charles Staff as City Engineer

Kevin Corwin recently joined the St. Charles team as City Engineer in the Department of Public Works. This position replacement reports to Debra Aylsworth, Director of Public Works.

“Kevin has more than a decade of experience in civil engineering,” said Aylsworth. “We are lucky to have Kevin on board as his diversified experience, education and certifications have afforded him opportunities in a variety of areas, including roadway design, storm and sanitary sewer design, hydro-logic and hydraulic analysis/design, environmental permitting, storm water management, potable water system analysis/design, construction administration and land surveying. There’s absolutely no doubt he’s well-qualified for this position!”

Corwin was employed as a civil engineering consultant with GBA in O’Fallon for the last eight years of his career, and prior to that with Metropolitan Engineering and Surveying in Barnhart. During that time, he worked almost exclusively with municipalities, helping them solve problems, find solutions and plan for the future.

“In addition, I’ve worked as a consultant in a combination of roles for municipal engineering, planning and community development, helping various cities complete comprehensive and redevelopment planning,” said Corwin. “I also have expertise in managing new infrastructure and administering municipal codes and ordinances. It is a pleasure to be a part of the city’s Public Works team, and I look forward to providing engineering support going forward.”

According to Corwin, he was located at Cottleville city hall for over two of his eight years with GBA, serving as that community’s consultant city engineer. “Due to rapid growth and the associated influx of development and redevelopment, the city quickly recognized a need for a full-time staff person to develop and oversee their planning and engineering department,” he said. “During my time there, I was especially proud of the groundwork we laid for future city infrastructure, economic development, and revitalization efforts for the city’s historic district.”

Corwin holds a masters of business administration from the University of Missouri-St. Louis, and a bachelor of science in civil engineering from the University of Missouri-Rolla. He has numerous professional and civic affiliations, including: American Society of Civil Engineers, American Public Works Association, Association of State Flood Plain Managers, Missouri Floodplain and Stormwater Managers Association, Missouri Association of City Clerks and Finance Officers, Missouri Municipal League, St. Charles County Economic Development Center, St. Charles County Planning Association, The Grant Institute, St. Charles Chamber of Commerce and Dardenne Creek Greenway Technical Advisory.

There was also one at-large scholarship awarded to a student residing in the City of St. Charles and attending a private or parochial high school.

The Council awarded the 2009 scholarships based on a written essay of 500–1,000 words addressing the question: "If I Was Mayor" (essays are available for review online at www.stcharlescitymo.gov; please refer to News Release section).

ST. CHARLES'
BICENTENNIAL
CONTINUES...

As you are well aware, the City of St. Charles is completely in the throws of its Bicentennial celebration -- the 200th anniversary of our city's incorporation as a village in 1809. Even though our actual anniversary date isn't until Oct. 13, a committee of volunteers has been busy planning a host of activities that will occur throughout the year. In fact, everyone here in town will continue to personally experience some 200 events in 200 days! That's right -- the Bicentennial serves as the underlying theme that runs through every event taking place in St. Charles throughout 2009.

In case you didn't have the opportunity to attend our kick-off celebration, you may not be aware the city commissioned artist Wayne Trinklein to create the Bicentennial Children's Sculpture. His original art, unveiled at the March 27 event, depicts the Red Bud, the city's official tree, and represents the heart or future of St. Charles -- our youth. In the fall, elementary school children citywide will have the opportunity to support this original work by collecting coins. Those students who submit 200 coins in honor of the city's 200th anniversary, will have their names engraved on a plaque positioned next to the Bicentennial statue, which is on display in the lobby of city hall. If you have children or grandchildren, I hope you'll encourage them to participate in this process.

School children from the Academy of the Sacred Heart take an up close and personal look at the Bicentennial sculpture. Pictured from l. to r. are: (back row) Daniel Christopher, Derek Griffiths, and Sam Seiler; (front row) Anna Stewart, Lindsey Griffiths, Molly Christopher, Henry Christopher, Allie Christopher, and Christian Stewart.

You won't want to miss the line up of events and activities taking place in St. Charles over the course of the next several months. A handy insert has been included in this edition that not only provides the rundown for Riverfest but the balance of the summer schedule as well, including the official Bicentennial activities which will occur during the second weekend in October.

As a part of the celebratory festivities to be held in October, we're hosting our very own Bicentennial version of Saint Charles Star on Sun., Oct. 11 at Wapelhorst Park. Patt Holt of the Patt Holt Singers will be the managing entity behind our vocal talent auditions, including the Semi-Final presentations. Since this is our city's 200th anniversary, only residents of St. Charles will be eligible to participate. Applications are available online at www.stcharlescitymo.gov, and are due back at the tourism office on or before Fri., July 24. It will be exciting to witness firsthand and subsequently showcase the homegrown talent available right here in St. Charles.

For specific questions about the Saint Charles Star event, please feel free to call Patt Holt directly at 636-947-0120. If your organization is interested in participating in the Bicentennial celebration in any other capacity, please call committee chair Karen Godfrey in the tourism office at 636-255-6109. At this writing, we're still looking for organizational sponsors at our Frontier Park event on Fri., Oct. 9 and we're hoping everyone will sign up to be in the Bicentennial parade on Sat., Oct. 10.

As you can readily see, there's a host of things happening this year to highlight our anniversary. We hope you'll join us for what will no doubt be a ton of free, family-friendly fun. In any event, we'll give folks something to talk about for the next 200 years!

All the best, have a terrific summer and be safe--

Patti York, Mayor
